

Droughtmaster Next Gen 2021 Young Beef Producers' Forum Award

The Young Beef Producers' Forum (YBPF) is a two-day conference held in Roma, Qld focused on providing educational, networking and capacity-building opportunities for those with an interest in the beef industry. The forum is hosted by the Future Farmers Network (FFN) and is Australia's biggest annual event dedicated to youth in agriculture.

"Managing Milestones" - the theme of the 2021 Forum – will focus on navigating through important periods in markets, business cycles, career progression, seasonal events, business development and succession. The past two years have seen unprecedented events occur in all our lives, as such the committee, in conjunction with FFN and industry leaders, have come up with this theme to focus on how different people and businesses have managed the milestones in their own experiences. So, if you're a beef producer, involved in a family business, or have a connection with the industry, this year's Young Beef Producers Forum is for you!

The Droughtmaster Next Gen Management Committee are excited to present an opportunity to support Droughtmaster members and enthusiasts to attend the 2021 YBPF! We are awarding up to three positions to attend the forum's full program which includes the YBPF cocktail event so applicants must be over 18 (and under 25 as of 20 November 2021).
